Ingram's Band To Play at NAACP Dance

A dance at the Community House auditorium next Sunday night, December 10, is being sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, under the chairmanship of Walter Rogers, local NAACP head.

Johnnie Ingram's colored band from San Francisco, which played at last Sunday's dance, will be back for a return engagement at the affair.

Rogers invites the community to come down and enjoy the evening, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Ingram and his boys will be back in town the following Sunday, December 17, for the regular Press Club Frolic held every other week in Marin City, sponsored by the Editorial Committee of the Marin City Council.

The next dance event on the calendar is for New Year's Eve when Ingram and his six-piece band will again play in Marin City.

Santa Claus Engaged for Xmas Party

Program plans for Marin City's big community children's Christmas party were well under way this week, with the date set for Thursday, December 21, at 7 p.m., at the Community House.

Santa Claus, himself, will lead the entertainment which includes performances by the town's guitar and dance groups, a skit by local Girl Scouts, a Christmas story movie, community solo and choir singing.

All of the city's organizations are cooperating in putting on the holiday affair, which is sponsored by the Marin City Council. Donations put in the collection jar at the rental office by residents will help finance the party.

Final item of the evening will be distribution of candy treats to every youngster. The names of volunteers and performers will be announced next week.

Children to Give Xmas Program At PTA Meeting

The regular monthly Parent-Teacher Association meeting will be held Thursday, December 14, at the Community House, with a Christmas program presented by local school children.

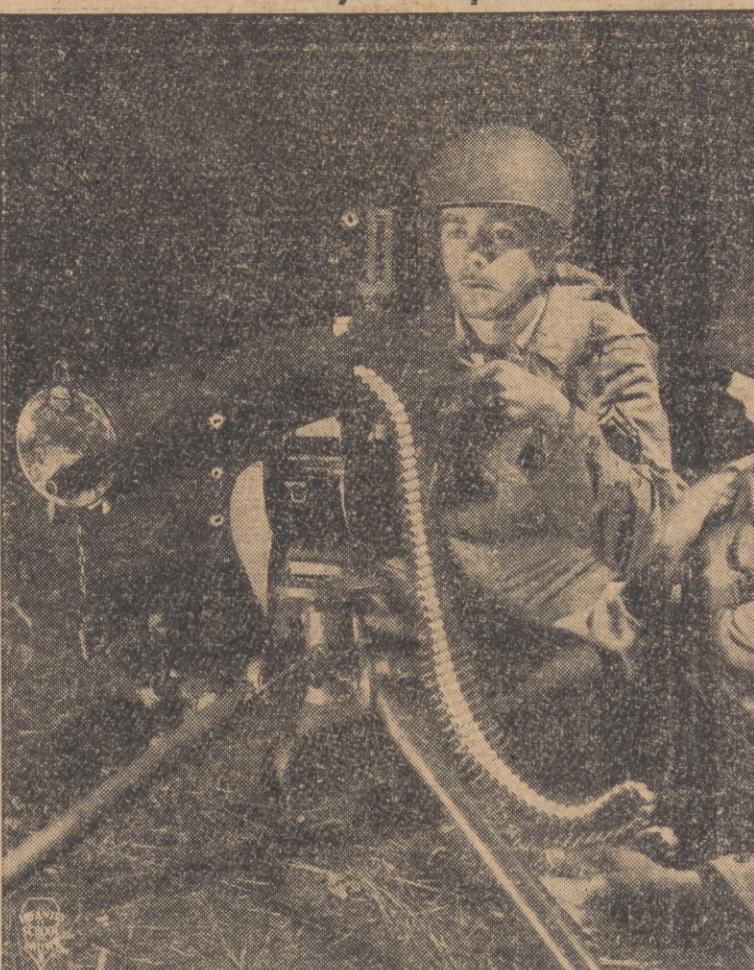

Following the meeting, mothers will serve refreshments in the teachers lounge at the school.

All interested parents are invited to attend.

Launching

Fifteen thousand workers at Marinship sent their answer to Pearl Harbor flying back into the face of the Japs last Wednesday when they launched their sixty-sixth vessel, the tanker S. S. Newhall Hills.

Painted on the bow of the ship was a falling bomb with the words: "Lest We Forget"—but, reversing the treacherous Pearl Harbor attack, the bomb was shown falling directly on a blood-tinged flag of the Rising Sun.

Former OPA Investigator Is New Market Manager Here

After two years of muddling through wartime OPA regulations and price ceilings under three different proprietors, the grocery section of the Marin City Market has a new operator guaranteed to solve the whole problem. As of December 3, M. E. Nelson, recent enforcement investigator with the San Francisco District OPA office, took over the management of the grocery department.

"I can faithfully promise the people of Marin City that all OPA regulations and prices will be in effect at their store. I intend to spend this next month checking every invoice and item to be sure all prices are 100 per cent in line," Nelson said.

The new proprietor left his job with the OPA office last Saturday after one and one-half years service.

He first became acquainted with the Marin City store three months ago when he came here to check stock for OPA violations. At that time, he went over the entire store with Lonnie Nichols, former owner, and set up correct price lists. Nelson was instrumental in bringing a recent injunction against the market, forbidding it to charge above ceiling prices.

Before he came to the San Francisco OPA job, Nelson owned and operated a store in Grand Forks, North Dakota, for eight years. His home town is Minneapolis, Minn.

Former grocery operator, Lonnie Nichols, is retaining management of the meat department.

According to Nichols, he gave up the grocery department because wartime management of it, with three retail and one wholesale establishment in Petaluma, and the meat market here was just too much of a business headache.

Navy Dance

Twenty-six Negro girls attended the Navy dance last Wednesday at Treasure Island. The next dance will be held on January 10, 1945.

Sunday Ban On Liquor Store Lifted

Reversing its decision of two weeks ago, the Marin County Housing Commission last Friday voted to allow the Marin City liquor store to stay open until 3 p.m. The ruling took effect last Sunday.

At a previous regular meeting, the Commission had passed a motion closing the local store all day Sunday.

The decision to allow opening from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. was made after a special committee of the Marin City Council met with Judge Guy Ciocca, executive director, and submitted the revised proposal to the commission.

Buy Christmas Seals, Urges Marin County TB Association

This week Marin County Tuberculosis Association mailed a large number of letters enclosing Christmas Seals addressed to Marin City residents. The association is asking these people to use the seals on all of their Christmas mail.

They are priced at $1 per sheet.

The only funds which the Association receives for its vast work of halting tuberculosis is from the sale of Christmas Seals.

City Organizes New Race Unity Commission

Keeping in step with major cities on the west coast, Marin City people met together last Friday night to organize the first Marin City Civic Unity Commission.

Notable guests at the meeting were two experts from Washington, D. C., Dr. Frank Horne and Dr. B. T. McGraw, racial relations advisors for the Federal Public Housing Authority and the Federal Housing Authority.

Another guest speaker, Larry Hughes, representative of the American Council on Racial Relations, said, "Marin City is famous all over the country for its persevering policy of non-segregation. We have all heard how your people have been willing, anxious and courageous enough to pioneer a new pattern of community living."

POLICY PRAISED

"It is proper," said Dr. Horn, "that Marin City, in keeping with its progressive reputation, should be the first housing project on the coast to take this step in creating the machinery to promote an amicable and constructive relationship between people of different races."

Approximately 25 local people attended the organizational meeting to set up the new commission. After thorough discussion, the group set as its aim, "To serve as a clearing house to prevent development of any division in the community and to further good race relationships which will promote war production by Marin City shipyard workers."

NOT RACE PROBLEMS

As pointed out by Dr. McGraw, problems seldom arise, due to the fact that people are of different race or color, although it often looks like it.

"We have discovered, after thorough investigation of many different housing situations all over the country, that segregation leads to making a race problem out of a community problem. It eliminates the education of people living together and learning together," he stated.

"Furthermore, a rigid system of housing segregation conflicts with a free employment system. Where races are being employed without discrimination, you cannot successfully run nearby housing with segregation. The people who work together freely must have the same freedom of dwelling," he added.

TO FORM LOCAL USO

The first official action of the new group was creation of a committee to work out an adequate program to provide recreation for servicemen visiting Marin City.

Tentative plans call for social evenings sponsored for that group. County cooperation from USO units will be enlisted. Members of the committee are Harrison Abbott, John Walton, Mrs. Marie Larson, Mrs. Daniel Allen, and Milen Dempster.

Elected chairman and secretary were Michael B. Smith and Samuel Stansbery.

School Holiday

Christmas holiday at the Marin City school will begin after school is out Friday, December 15. School will open again on Tuesday, January 2.

Cigaret Query Brings Quick Response Merchants Give With Shortage Reasons

By INQUIRING REPORTER

In general, the lot of an inquiring reporter is a hard one. Posed with a direct question on choice of color for suspenders or the state of the nation, most men will freeze and gaze with suspicion upon the interviewer.

But the question, "What do you think of the cigarette shortage?" asked this week by your Marin Citizen reporter, opened the floodgates of conversation and elicited enough opinions to keep the Federal Trade Commission busy on a year's investigation.

In Marin City there are seven legitimate sources of supply. So starting in on the well-worn circle trodden by the fag-hunter, we stopped at the Sweet Shop to have a talk with Mrs. Pearl Duffy, clerk.

"I think it's a shame that the guys working in the shipyard have to run their legs off looking for cigarettes. A man is entitled to his smoke after the day's work is done."

"Anyway, there's no reason for the shortage. I hear that they are piled high in city warehouses, and what they're holding them for, no one knows," states Mrs. Duffy.

She added that the Sweet Shop hasn't had a cigarette in three weeks, and before that all they received were odd brands she hadn't seen in 15 years of smoking.

During the discussion, Mrs. Pauline Schenk, cafeteria manager, joined in saying: "It's the small guy racketeering which is causing all the trouble." Sending cigarettes to the boys overseas is another reason for the shortage, she added.

On the problem of selling her short weekly supply of approximately 20 cartons, Pauline nearly broke down. According to her story, purchasers so often mobbed the cigaret man when he came to fill the cafeteria machine that now he doesn't dare show up until the establishment closes at night.

From then on, she attempts, without much success, to keep people down to one package and out of fights. When customer arguments reach the hair-pulling stage, she simply turns the machine to the wall until they start acting like little ladies and gentlemen again.

Over at the drug store, R. Monson is ready to adopt a new system in dispensing his supply, which is 30 per cent of what he received one year ago. Starting next Monday, he will divide his week's supply into six days, and put them on sale at 11 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The day shift workers will get a break Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, when he'll put them out at 5 p.m.

"Manpower shortage and shipping are causing the shortage," he declared.

Lonnie Nichols at the market, recently gave up the system which the drug store will inaugurate when he discovered the customers tore up the store getting to the cigarette counter. Now he just juggles the times around and sneaks in a few cartons at various hours during the day. He puts out about 25 cartons daily on a hit and miss hour basis.

"It's labor difficulty. With ceiling prices and the cost of labor, there isn't enough profit left the cigarette manufacturer to care about whether he produces or not," said the store man.

The bus depot reports receipt of "very few cartons" per week, which the clerks sell on a first come, first served basis. As to the cause of the shortage, Clerk Jewell Erwin says, "Black market."

We didn't get around to the liquor store and there's no supervision over the bi-monthly filled machine at the Community House, so our report isn't 100 per cent scientific.

We did find out though, that in the words of one merchant, "Honor and courtesy go by the board when a man's out after his cigarettes, and selling a limited supply is one hell of a problem."

Henry Is Lost

Nurse Marie Bogue of the Medical Center, is very sad this week. Henry, the large cinnamon-colored cat she rescued from starvation several months ago, is lost.

Auto Accident

A head-on collision on Donahue Avenue last Sunday night resulted in only slight damage to the automobiles of Arthur L. Whitley and Robert V. Morton.

Driver Whitley was going north when he sideswiped the car driven by Morton, the sheriff's office reports.

Housing People To Attend Naho Conference

A delegation of housing officials from Marin City, Hamilton Field and Tiburon, will attend the National Association of Housing Officials in Las Vegas next Wednesday and Thursday.

Leaving from here are Judge and Mrs. Guy Ciocca, Milen Dempster, project services director; Miss Ruth Lewis, rental aide. Housing commission members attending are Frank Keegan and Bill Cole.

Others are Mrs. A. Cunningham, project manager at Hamilton Field; Harry Downey, maintenance superintendent at Hamilton Field; Mrs. Ethel Smith, project manager at Tiburon, and Miss Vern Herbert, secretary of the executive director.

Pants Hung High

Arthur F. Fillet reported to the sheriff's office that a prowler entered his house late last Saturday night through an unlocked door, and left with his trousers containing 75 cents.

Fillet later found his pants hanging on a tree outside his home, with the money gone.

Papa Perry

Fred Perry, Marin City liquor store proprietor and Sausalito business man, is the proud father of an eight-pound baby boy, born Wednesday, December 6, at St. Francis Hospital.

Hills Tanker Establishes Yard Record

Establishing a new yard record, the tanker SS Inglewood Hills was delivered on Thursday, November 30, into service with the U. S. Maritime Commission by Marinship.

Named for the important petroleum field located three miles north of the City of Inglewood, in the Baldwin Hills of Los Angeles County, California, the ship is the eighth of a series of 32 8,250 horsepower turbo-electric tankers named for important California oilfields. The remainder of the series are to be completed at Marinship by the middle of 1945.

Britisher Reviews Yard Predicts Post-War Surplus

In two fields—shipbuilding and artificial rubber—the United States has made its most amazing contribution to United Nations' victory.

That is the opinion of Sir Clive Baillieu, deputy president of the Federation of British Industries, who visited the shipyard of Marinship Corporation on last Saturday, Aviation, Ltd., English aviation firm.

"I believe we will have a surplus of ships after the war," he stated. "This will be a common problem to be met by all maritime nations, including the United States and England."

"Shipping has been the supreme American contribution," he declared. "The situation was aptly described by Winston Churchill, when he said of the Allies: 'With shipping we are a solid block; without shipping we are a scattered confederacy.'

TODAY—570 of our boys

American casualties now average more than 570 for every day of war. As the conquest of Japan advances, losses will probably be higher.

This is a BIG farm year—
Now Buy BIGGER Bonds!

Here are 6 big reasons for buying the most you can—$100, $500, $1,000 in the big 6th War Loan. War Bonds give you:

1. The best and safest investment in the world.
2. At maturity, $4.00 for every $3.00 you lend.
3. The convenience of cash—plus increase in value!
4. Funds to replace and restore worn-out farm equipment, soil fertility, and buildings.
5. Funds for educating your children; a nest-egg for your own security, travel, retirement.
6. The increased purchasing power vitally needed to win the Peace.

THEY still die—will YOU buy?

THE BIGGEST JOB IS STILL AHEAD. BUY BIGGER BONDS!

WILL you lend dollars, while they give lives? The conquest of Japan will probably be the costliest war in history. Distances are enormous. The enemy is tough and fanatical. We have no reserves of supply within thousands of miles—everything must be transported. And war in the Pacific requires special equipment, not used elsewhere.

Lending money is the easiest part of the war effort; but it is no less important than fighting. One B-29 Superfortress to bomb Tokyo costs $600,000. To train the pilot costs $27,000. Each torpedo costs $12,000. Because of the vast distances, it takes four to six ships, constantly in motion, to deliver one shipload per month.

Japan thinks our home-front is soft. They think we'll get tired of the war and quit. Well—it's up to you. Our fighting men aren't quitters; the Japs know that. It's you they are counting on.

Let's give them the answer—in the 6th War Loan! Let's show Tokyo we can "take it", too! Buy BIGGER Bonds, and we'll finish the big job faster.

The Week at Your Marin County Theatres

Agnes Moorehead doesn't hold with those ancients who believe that genius thrives on misery and an empty stomach.

"Everyone—actors, musicians, painters, even plumbers and ditch diggers—do their best work when they have a full belly and are free of worry," maintains Aggie.

"It stands to reason," says she, "that a person can't put forth his best effort if he's unhappy or if in the back of his mind there is gnawing worry about the butcher, baker, or reaction of his associates."

Agnes is convinced that those great musicians and artists of the past whose talents flourished 'midst poverty had some sort of compensating happiness; either they were in love or they had wonderful friends.

The actress, who in 1943 won the New York critics' award for her performance in "The Magnificent Ambersons," thinks a "relaxed and happy atmosphere" stimulates an actress or actor to far better performances than tension and reprimands ever do.

She liked the company and part she played in "Mrs. Parkington"—and why not? Agnes was the rival of Greer Garson for Walter Pidgeon's affection.

One Happy Family

"We were such a happy company," said she. "Everyone was relaxed and understanding. That attitude was reflected in our efforts."

Agnes, a New York stage and radio actress before Orson

Welles drafted her to play the mother of "Citizen Kane", maintains our picture industry is more considerate of actors than the stage.

"On the stage you have to elbow your way through your career. Here it doesn't much matter whether you're a star or a bit player. There's always someone near-by ready and willing to give you encouragement. At least," she added, "that's been my experience."

It wasn't until after "The Magnificent Ambersons" that she decided to remain here. Before signing a contract with M-G-M she always free-lanced, figuring to obtain a greater variety of roles in that way.

But her roles have been pretty varied, though, with the exception of a brief experience in "Big Street," each has been a "nasty character." Her nastiest, Agnes thinks, is in "Dragon Seed", with Katie Hepburn. She played the part of a Chinese Quisling. But she was hateful, too, in "Since You Went Away."

"I play the kind of character you all know exists but, thank heaven, rarely encounter-ter." That's what she said, but we've all met that kind of women—let's face it.

Agnes admits she knows nothing about "camera angles" and has no intention of learning. She's far more concerned that her part be interesting rather than that it be too long.

"It's my hope to make each portrayal different," Agnes said. "I'd hate to get into a rut."

Well, there's very little chance of that happening. Aggie, like the late great Alice Brady, is an actress who loves her job, will play anything or everything if she thinks it's got merit or is different from the ordinary run of parts. I remember years ago sitting in a vaudeville theater with Alice when there was a monkey act on. Alice sat on the edge of her chair. I asked why. She replied "Who knows? I may have to play one of those critters some day."

The public, of course, will decide how well Aggie manages different roles, and they have been pretty pleased up to date.

Champ Flag Returns to Yard For Ship Production Record

Title of "National Tanker Champ" was conferred on Marinship this week as the Sausalito shipyard revealed the establishment of a new tanker production record of five ships completed and delivered into service during the month of November.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the United States Maritime Commission, wired K. K. Bechtel, president of Marinship Corporation, that Marinship's production of tankers per way exceeded that of any other shipyard during November.

Admiral Land simultaneously asked Edgar Kaiser, general manager of the Swan Island shipyard near Portland, Ore., to send the flag at once to the new titleholder. Swan Island, which had retained the flag for several months, delivered six ships from eight ways in November, compared to Marinship's record of five tankers from six ways.

Bechtel declared that full credit for the accomplishment must go to the 15,000 men and women who built the ships. He stated, "I extend my most sincere personal congratulations to the Marinship gang for a big job well done." News of the award was received with enthusiasm by workers on all three shifts.

Marinship's record was based on the following deliveries:

SS Buena Vista Hills, Nov. 6
SS Coalinga Hills, Nov. 13
SS Montebello Hills, Nov. 22
SS Inglewood Hills, Nov. 30
USS Abatan, during Nov.
All five of these ships are 523-foot tankers. The first four listed above are merchant tankers, powered by speedy 8,250-horsepower turbo-electric motors. The USS Abatan is a Navy oiler with special military installations, powered by a 10,000-horsepower motor.

Marinship previously held the Tanker Champ flag for several months following March, 1944, when a yard record of 4 completed tankers brought national acclaim.

The Tanker Champ flag competition is held each month among all tanker construction yards of the United States Maritime Commission.

Welcome, Stranger

Marin City is being unique again. We're pretty sure that this is the first housing project to engage the services of an OPA enforcement investigator as manager of the town's grocery store.

Though it may be unusual, there's no denying the practical aspects of retaining an expert to guide a business through new wartime regulations. We have no doubt that the new man will honestly abide by his promise to the people of Marin City to keep store prices at or below ceiling level.

Instead of the difficulty local citizens have had with our store—the necessity of suits and injunctions which were launched against its past proprietors in an attempt to keep prices in legal line, we foresee a change for the better with the new management.

For here's a man who, in addition to being a former grocery operator, has been an official whose job it was to institute the legal proceedings punishing any business man who violated OPA laws.

All in all, we're inclined to take an optimistic view of future trading relationships at the one grocery store here. In the past there's been a lack of faith in its management which has driven local residents to other communities to buy the daily necessities of life.

This has been an unnecessary hardship imposed upon hard-working shipyard men and women. The people who live here are entitled to a store where they are guaranteed fair prices and courteous service.

We think the last manager tried to give these things to us but admittedly had neither the time nor the knowledge necessary to do the job.

So here's a welcome to our new business man, Mr. M. E. Nelson, and a reminder that the community will support him if he plays fair with the community.

You always feel better after having said something fine about a person. You feel like getting into some dark place, however, after having revealed faults, and sent some news on its destructive way. The world cries for Goodwill Collectors.—George Mathew Adams.

MIKE'S COLUMN

By MICHAEL B. SMITH

The meeting last week which resulted in the organization of the Marin City Civic Unity Commission may well be one of the most significant ever held in our town.

The fact that it was held at all proves that the people are willing to handle a difficult and touchy problem with a realism too often lacking in the past. The frankness and dignity with which local residents, both colored and white, discussed the matter of maintaining amicable and constructive relations between people of different races was indeed gratifying.

There was no hint from any of the white people present that a special type of second class citizenship should be forced on the Negroes "to keep them in their place." Absent, also, was the "professional Negro" who welcomes discrimination against his race because it affords him an opportunity to stand out as a defender of the downtrodden.

Actually it was a meeting of intelligent men and women, who said:

"Here we are, both black and white, in the midst of a war. Our main job at present is to work together to see that the war is won as soon as possible. In that effort we must have unity."

The fact that the meeting was held is certainly no indication that any one feels that inter-racial troubles are imminent. On the contrary, if the machinery is set up whereby reasonable people of both the races can meet and discuss their common problems it is impossible for trouble to grow out of misunderstandings.

All over America, forward-looking people are taking similar steps toward the handling of the problem. We need only to look at some of the tragic race riots of the last couple of

Winter Adventure Local Head Fracture Recalls Tale of Snowbound Mine

By NURSE CHICK

"Peaceful calm after the storm," thought Nurse Chick. Quickly and efficiently she tidied the treatment room, plopping clean instruments into the sterilizer and soiled linen into the hamper. Dr. Dick had just finished a fancy suture job on Mr. Blackwell's head.

The Blackwell Ship "Trouble" had been launched when Mrs. B. emphatically christened Mr. B's pate with a beer bottle. The results were not less spectacular and certainly more gruesome than the average launching.

The ensuing excitement at the Medical Center was noteworthy. Relatively pouring in and trailing out. Policemen questioning everyone. Dr. Dick doing his best to treat the bleeding patient. The ambulance arriving, men with a stretcher carrying the man away. It was a relief to have the patient well cared for and in bed at a hospital.

Dr. Dick had done a hard job well. Head suturing could at times be quite a problem. She laughed to herself as she recalled a suturing case of a number of years ago.

Several years earlier she had been at Walker Mine, in Plumas County. The very location was a setting for adventure. The mining town nestled at the bottom of a steep walled cup of mountains, at an altitude of about 5000 feet. In the winter the only road to the outside world was impassable. Snow drifted high and clung moistly to the gracefully drooping trees. Communication with the outside world was limited to the telephone and tram line.

The telephone service would be cut off for days at a time during a heavy storm, leaving only the tram line; the real artery of life for those snowed-in, exciting months.

The tram line spanned the 13 miles to Spring Garden, where the semi-refined ore was sent in carloads to a distant refinery. Spaced between the ore buckets were "carrier buckets," taking mail out of Walker Mine and bringing supplies in. In rare instances a carrier conditions of the market would be much improved if the women handling food all wore hair nets or snoods.

Family Life

By Vox Populus

As we got off the bus coming home from work, Si started talking. "Look at the hills over there," he almost whispered. "The different greens of the new grass with some of last summer's brown still showing through, the shadows from the slanting rays of the sun; the bay, today sheen and smooth, hardly a ripple, yet also with different shades of color and light; the clean blueness of the sky except for those lazy white clouds, sharp in their whiteness. Beautiful . . . beautiful" he muttered.

"The curves and dimples of the hills, so soft and satisfying. Compare them with the harsh straightness of the highway and bridge man has made stretching out toward San Rafael. Look also at the Bay Bridge and part of Oakland over there. At a distance not all man-made things are unlovely."

Si seemed to have got himself quite worked up. "How come?" he asked. "Nature is not always lovely—robins eat worms, cats eat robins, and man tears man—and yet we also have all this beauty. How come?"

I didn't reply much of anything as we walked toward our homes, but as usual Si had started my thinker going. When we first moved here, Emma and I had talked of the beauty of the spot. We had looked at it from our front porch, an occasional Sunday morning when the morning lights were soft and strange; at night time, when the stars and moon were out.

But we had got used to it—didn't speak of it anymore; our eyes had lost their seeing; we had stopped looking.

Now my sight was awake again. I was looking and feeling—my heart skipped a bit at the beauty of this strange Western spring that comes in the winter time, and the words of Edna St. Vincent Millay came to me:

"Lord, I do fear,
Thou'st made the world too
beautiful this year
My soul is all but out of me
—let fall
No burning leaf; let no bird call."

Santa Says . . .

War Bond First"

THERE'S no better gift to give, whether you wrap it in gay paper and bright ribbons, or just slip it into an envelope. The War Bond you give today will at a future date buy anything the recipient's heart may desire. Yet right now, it's the most important purchase you can make because it's a tangible way of helping to shorten the war and bring our heroes home to enjoy future Christmases at peace.
